ARNOLD HIGH SCHOOL
Arnold, Penn. presents

THE GAY NINETIES

EDITORS

Tusing, Marino, Nee

ADVISOR! F. PALLONE

Yesterday

Pooh! Pooh! Pe-do!

The kindergarten class of 1949.

Our hearts were young and gay in fifth grade.

J. Tusing and D. Shaw in their younger days.

Today

Twistin' time U.S.A.

Our majorettes join in the cheers for their favorites.

The stitch is just a little crooked.

You know what I mean?

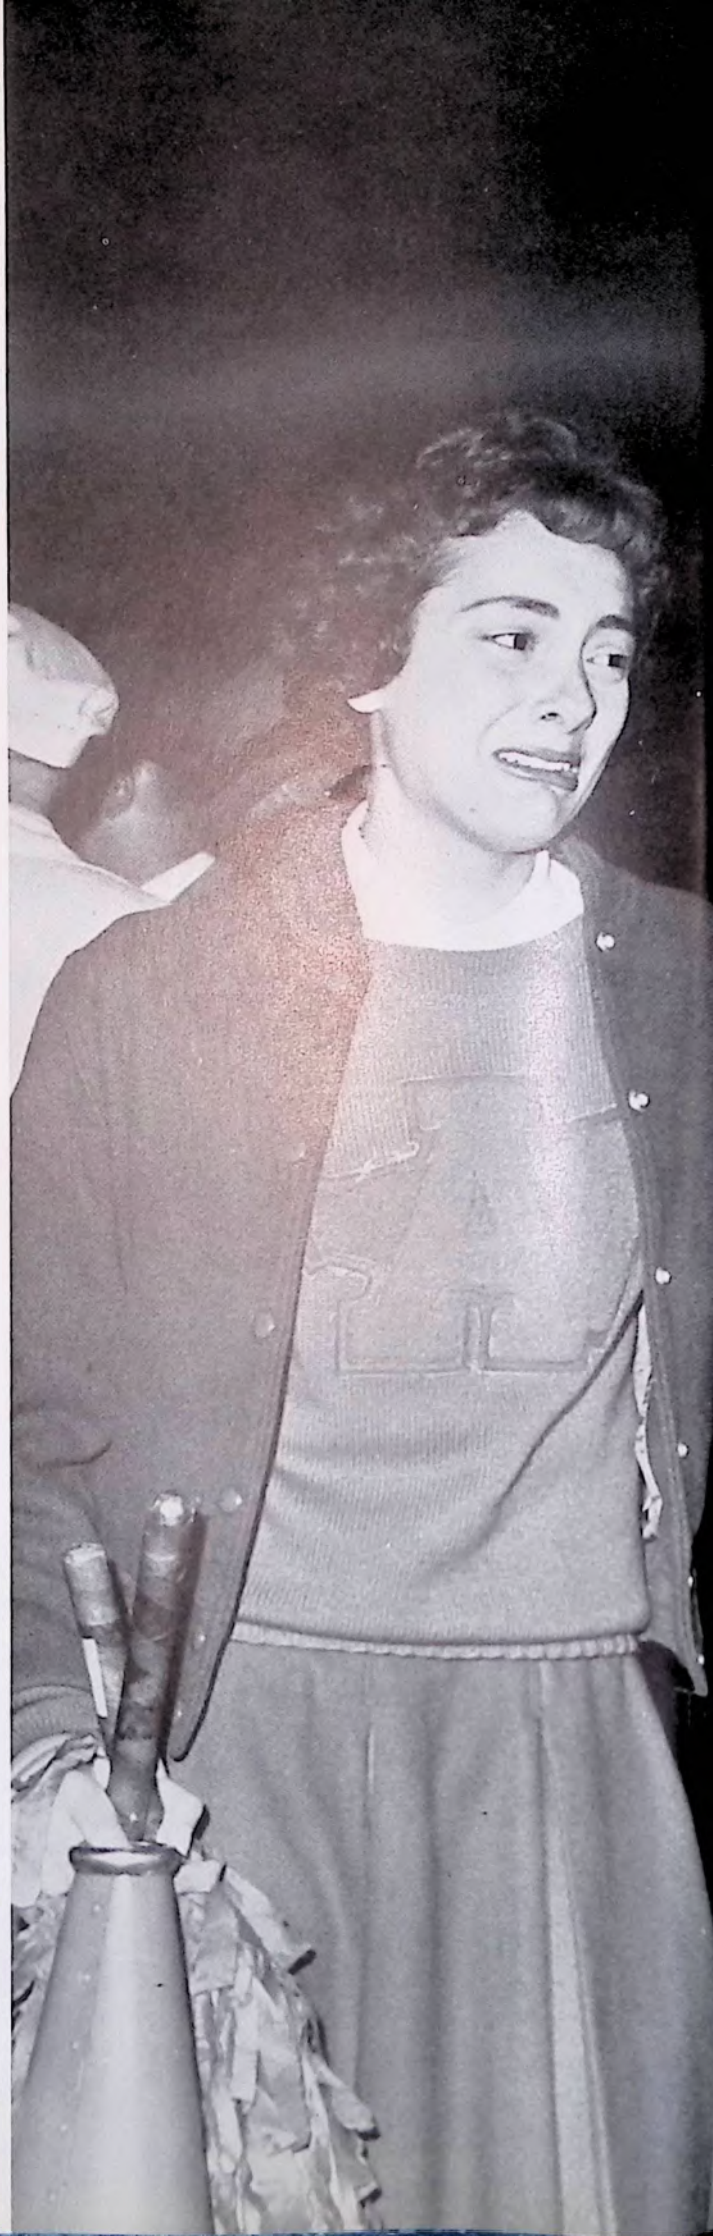

Two new additions to the band?

The history of Arnold High School is a treasury of memories which will live forever in the hearts of its alumni. The Arlion staff of 1962 wishes to share these recollections with you, the student body.

Looking back on the good old days of 1895, we find our first high school surrounded by fields and vast orchards which is now the site of the Leishman Avenue Elementary School. In 1914 it was necessary to meet our growing needs by erecting a new structure at a location which is now the Victoria Avenue Building that houses our present elementary and junior high school. As the town grew, the increase in the number of students forced the erection in 1931 of our present high school which is located on Alcoa Drive. In 1952 a new wing was added which now houses a gymnasium and twelve new classrooms.

These annals are ours to cherish and to appreciate. In preserving these memories it is our desire that these reminiscences will afford you many hours of golden entertainment.

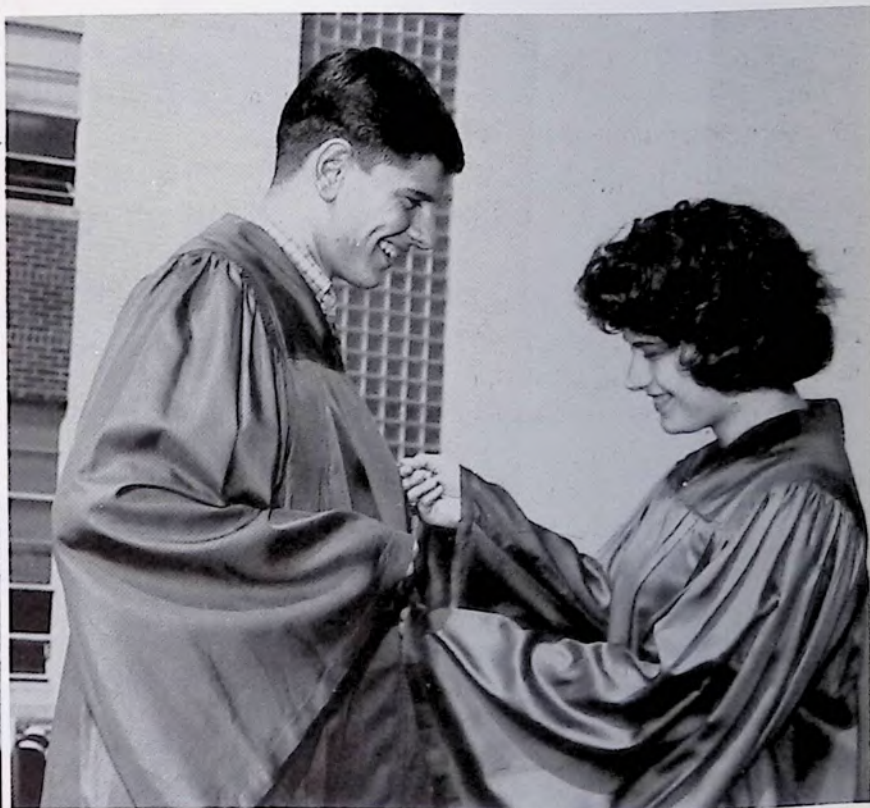

A tearful climax after the Tarentum game.

Today's students develop into tomorrow's citizens

Looking confidently into the future.

At last the great day arrives!

We Honor You . . .

A school and its surroundings provide the ideal environment in which we, as students of Arnold High School, may strive to emulate the scholarship, leadership, character, and service of individuals who tirelessly help to prepare us for our future vocations. Many close friendships with the faculty and administration serve to insure this end by providing sincere advice and unfaltering confidence.

Mr. Frank B. Pallone has overly and abundantly fulfilled his duty in all respects as a faculty member at Arnold High School. Upon receiving his Bachelor's Degree from St. Francis College, Mr. Pallone went on to attain a Master's Degree at Pennsylvania State University. He is now attending the University of Pittsburgh where he is studying school financing.

In 1952 Mr. Pallone began teaching here at which time he assumed sponsorship of the Arlion. Since then he has unveiled ten cherishable volumes of high school memories that can never be forgotten. He also became assistant athletic director in 1959.

In May, 1951, Mr. Pallone married the former Rosemary Paletta. Their two children, Frank, 8, and Teresa Elaine, 6, attend Mt. St. Peter's Parochial School.

And so, with this, your tenth edition of the Arlion, we, the senior class of Arnold High School, are taking this opportunity to extend our sincere gratitude and deepest appreciation for having been associated with you. It is not enough to dedicate this edition of the Arlion to express the high esteem with which we hold you in our hearts; its is only sufficient to say that you, Mr. Pallone, are the keystone upon which we, as members of the Class of 1962, shall build a solid future.

Another job for Mr. Clean.

There is nothing as important as the people around us, for they mold the eventual person we become. Each person we meet leaves his impression for us to benefit by. The faculty, administration, and fellow students themselves have gained much from each other. This association is the most lasting kind for it is based on mutual benefit.

The close association of school friends is perhaps the most memorable. Yet, after graduation there will only be a few such friendships that will continue. Even so, the effect of high school relationships will be ever present in the lives of this year's seniors as it has been present in the lives of the first seniors who graduated from Arnold High School.

Men behind the plan

Capable and devoted citizens who know the exact and important requirements of their duties make up the Arnold School Board. Unselfishly devoting their time to difficult tasks, they have achieved great success in the past years. Just as the earliest members earnestly went about forming policies and decisions, our present members realize the importance and demand of education and strive for the best educational facilities possible. Our very first administrators maintained programs with the interest of the student in mind. This democratic idea has remained and is our enlightened board of today as they consider every opportunity for each boy and girl.

Graduates of 1962,

You, stimulated by an unknown future, are the adventurers of a challenging age. Our faith in your inherent desire to produce the best that is in you prompts us to maintain that through the atomic age and any subsequent age you will effect the survival of civilization.

Your world of today knows no boundaries. Its total area is your backyard; its peoples, your neighbors. Within this "shrunk" space you must mingle with every class, color, and creed. This new communicableness necessitates your understanding of many languages if you are to successfully live with your "new neighbors."

The frontiers of an unknown universe lie ahead, challenging you to enter the greatest age the world has ever known. Within you must burn the deep conviction that the peoples of the world in a common neighborhood can live together in peace. Strengthen yourself with the undying hope and courage which youth alone can claim as you set forth on this new and ever-enticing experience. Into whatever activity it escorts you, may you be filled with a lasting joy that results in success.

Principal

Class of 1962:

Education trends throughout the world hold wider and deeper significance for American Education today than any previous period of our country.

Those of you graduating today face a world with two great anxieties—physical survival and ideological survival. Since many of our problems are international, our contacts and our understandings must be international. You are admonished to become intimately acquainted with foreign cultures.

We can expect a greater challenge from science and technology. The sciences which have provided us with many medicinal and technological advantages have also given us technological unemployment. To combat this unemployment we must go out prepared to prevent its extension.

You young graduates are in an envious position of the challenge in helping to transmit a knowledge of history and appreciation of the finer things, and the psychological insights which will enable you to control not only machines but “yourselves.”

Graduates of 1962:

Congratulations: Your high school diploma is your first important document; it signifies a record of your achievement, a degree of success in your specific abilities, a key to your future, and a potential desire for more knowledge.

As a high school graduate you should be most concerned with the last item rather than with the first three. You should be fired with the desire to develop your special talents and abilities leading to your life's goal. By now your plans for your future should be definite. You should know whether you are going to college or are ready for the world of work.

No matter what plans you make, in order to attain success you must be willing to render the best of your services in study or work. Let these services be dominated by honesty and dependability and mixed with the all important trait of “getting along with people.”

Our administrators take time to relax

Our administrators are happy and surprised at the transformation of the gym into a beautiful oriental ballroom for the prom.

Faculty members and guests beam happily for just "one more."

The excitement of this year-end event is the result of much work.

The teacher of today has more of a stress on his job of preparing students for their delegated futures than did the teacher of yesteryear. Today, with education and knowledge so necessary for survival, he must carefully and clearly guide the boys and girls to better understanding and learning. Continually molding their minds and building their character and personality, a teacher's influence never ceases. Always, regardless of the era, their main objective is to create and maintain a desire or thirst for knowledge that lives forever. We, as students, wish to express our appreciation to such a capable and deserving faculty.

1962 Senior Class

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS

FIRST ROW: R. Rocchi, treasurer; J. Ceraso, vice-president; J. Abbott, secretary. STANDING: Mr. Pallone, co-ordinator; J. Tusing, president.

SENIORS

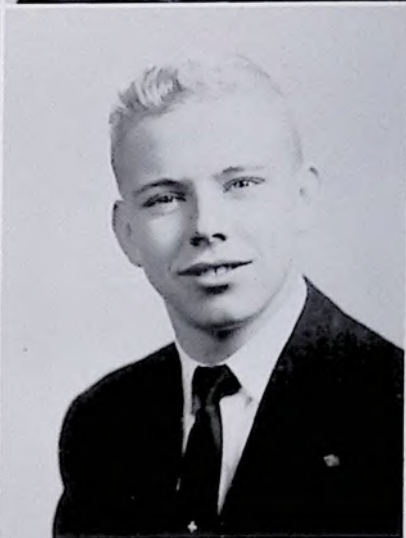

What can be said to sum up three years of high school? Is it enough to recall the stiff newness of being sophomores, or the perpetual bustling of being juniors, or the final year of being seniors? Ask any senior and you will find the answer is "No."

All the pain, happiness, nonchalance, and conscientiousness seem to melt into a memory of awkward children suddenly grown into responsible adults. How could we forget football games, the gym show, our first prom, all the school sales, or "The Curious Savage"?

As it has been for every senior class before ours, we are happy to have attended Arnold High School and will be proud to acknowledge our "Alma Mater." Friendships will be broken and each will go his separate way after graduation day, but none will forget Arnold High School or the people who shared our important three years.

The backbone of our minstrel show.

About one hundred junior high students were cast in the annual minstrel show. Tryouts for the event were open to the entire junior high student body. Mrs. Dorothy Marinucci directed the project, the script for which was written by members of the cast.

The jamboree gave the students an opportunity to plan and create all the costumes that were worn in the show and to choose appropriate music for the specialty act.

Playing principle roles in the musical were D. Cowen, I. Franzi, J. Carmichael, and B. Verdini.

1962 Junior Class

Long-range interception

With the advent of the junior year comes many long hard, and frustrating hours. It is the make it or break it year. Annually the raising of most of a class' funds falls within this, sometimes all too short, 180 days.

"He who is determined has half his work done." Certainly this class of 1963 has had an excess of determination.

Under the leadership of Domenick Graziano, president; Joseph Borrelli, vice-president; Susan Karluk, secretary; and Carol Zamperini, treasurer, they have labored feverishly during football season at the concession stands. Their fine sales record is a tribute to them.

Around Thanksgiving comes the annual Christmas candle sale. With a fine selection especially for the Yuletide season, the juniors rushed out into our town to add a substantial profit to their prom fund.

The next event on the money-raising calendar was the junior class dance. It, as all the other class activities, turned out to be a huge success.

Now only one thing was present in the mind of every junior—the Junior-Senior Prom. This evening was the longest awaited night in high school. What finer way to spend that hard earned money than on a beautiful prom?

The 1962 freshmen are only a few days away from the end of their first year of working together as a class. They are about ready to take the big step that will lead them to senior high next fall.

The freshman year is always one of great excitement and enthusiasm. For the first time fund-raising projects are undertaken. There is the annual magazine sale and the freshman class dance. These activities bring out the true qualities of a class and have shown leadership, cooperation, initiative, and determination.

The class of 1965 has many fine memories under its hat, but its success can only be attained in the next three years of senior high. Good luck, "Fresh-

Our lives were enriched by our participation in activities whose meetings and projects developed leadership, provided relaxation, and encouraged talent. They made the 1961-62 school year particularly interesting for all. Starting with football season, the year seemed to bring a barrage of pleasurable moments for those taking part in them. Through the basketball season up to the prom, as in each year before, students thrilled to those activities that would always be part of their high school memories.

Co-editors discuss some copy.

ARLION

Our Arnold yearbooks have come a long way from the first paperback books. They have broadened and improved to become the record of all school memories that we know today. It is the link between the future and the past—a reminder of the best years of our lives.

From the first plans of the book to the finished product, revisions and new ideas are constantly used to improve the book. Informal shots and their captions lend humor and action to the memorial of all school times. Identifying pictures, composing senior write-ups, choosing colors, and typing the dummy sheets only begin the work of the Arlion staff.

All will recognize the ingenuity and originality of this year's book. With its own personality, yet, following the traditions of its predecessors, the Arlion presents a vivid panorama of the 1961-62 school year.

Along with Mr. Pallone, who has successfully completed his tenth yearbook, the Arlion staff sincerely hopes that this book will remain a record of happy memories for all.

Student Council

STUDENT COUNCIL

Since the first meeting on March 1, 1947, the Arnold student council has been the democratic body of the school. It interprets the idea of students, makes school improvements where needed, and is the voice of all those who wish to be heard.

Along with the annual Christmas card sale and student council dances, the organization handles the school elections, hall monitors, keeping the lockers clean, and scheduling sales for other clubs.

The council is made up of those most capable and interested in representing their fellow students and doing beneficial projects for the school. This year's council has carried on the traditions of preceding councils and has also begun many new programs for which it will be remembered.

Football Club

FOOTBALL CLUB

The Football Club offered an opportunity for the football players to review offensive plays and defensive maneuvers of the game to be played. Mr. Martin, sponsor, brought out originality as he gave each player a chance to express his ideas on plays. Weaknesses and strong points of previous games were discussed and mutually agreed upon. The meetings were held once a week and they provided the team with greater knowledge of football.

Future Homemakers of America

FUTURE HOMEMAKERS OF AMERICA

Under the guidance of Mrs. Ventura and Mrs. Larimer, the F.H.A. not only received first hand information in cooking and sewing but also first hand experience in bettering themselves as future homemakers.

For their extra activities they managed the refreshments at the prom and made favors for the children in the hospital.

The initiative and the willingness shown by the girls this year will prove to be a valuable asset in the future.

Future Teachers of America

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA

The requirements, opportunities, and personal rewards of the teaching career are thoroughly discussed at the Future Teachers of America club meetings.

Through various activities—ushering at open house, reading to school children at the library, assisting teachers, watching classrooms, etc.—the F.T.A. member has a chance to experience some of the tasks of a teacher. The club strives to instill into the member a desire to become a good teacher.

The club's annual candy sale provides money for a scholarship which was given to the most deserving senior member.

The F.T.A. members are grateful to their advisors, Miss Cribbs and Mrs. Ursic.

Future Nurses of America

FUTURE NURSES OF AMERICA

FUTURE NURSES OF AMERICA

The Future Nurses of America is an organization which provides the necessary experience for girls entering the nursing field. This club has been organized for only two years, but has attained a high standard for girls at Arnold High School. Under the capable instruction of Mrs. Tannas, our school nurse, the girls are prepared for a better understanding of nursing.

The girls were required to serve a certain amount of time at the hospital as candystripe girls. This year they were given an orientation tour at the hospital where they were taught the basic fundamentals of nursing.

LEADERS CLUB

With Miss Troiano as advisor, the G.L.C. of Arnold High School was initiated into our school this year.

The club has a closed membership for girls in the ninth through twelfth grades, and each member must maintain a "C" average.

The purpose of this organization is "... to stimulate interest and growth in athletic activities: to promote good fellowship and to foster a spirit of genuine sportsmanship among the girls of this school."

The sponsoring of the successful play day and the exciting volleyball tournament were two of the club's activities.

Through her many experiences and tasks, each girl learned leadership and good sportsmanship.

One readily agrees that the G.L.C. has lived up to its standards. We hope that this fine organization will continue to keep the good record it has obtained.

KEY CLUB

"... service through real work" is the main purpose of the Key Club, and through this year's various activities each Key Club member held to that purpose. Helping to collect money in the drive for retarded children, cleaning the football stadium after each home game, aiding the local Kiwanis Club with their pancake dinner, and ringing bells on street corners at Christmastime to collect money for the needy were some of the services for their school and community to which the boys and Mr. Hajel, advisor, generously gave much of their time. The club's annual "bean" dinner and the post-game dances were greatly appreciated by the student body.

The club develops initiative, leadership ability, and good citizen practices.

Library Club

LIBRARY CLUB

Under the supervision of Mr. Galli, our librarian, the Library Club has devoted much of its time to help keep up our efficient library. The girls of this club enjoyed their duties of typing and filing cards, writing overdue notices, mending books, preparing new books for circulation, and checking the book shelves. These girls were most noted for their originality and artistic ability in creating beautiful bulletin board displays.

Naturally, everyone knows that all our school work is centered around the library. These young librarians gave up their study halls to help us. We might need a book for a report, an encyclopedia for information, some books for themes, or maybe just a magazine for pleasure. A word of thanks and appreciation is expressed to them.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

The thirteen senior members of the National Honor Society have fulfilled the aims set by the society for the basis of receiving membership.

Scholarship is the greatest goal set down for which the students should strive. The next would be character—that of any fine, young typical American boy or girl. The third point is leadership which they must possess to benefit their school, community, and most of all, their classmates. And last, but not least, their desire to serve their school and teachers justly, as well as the community, is greatly encouraged.

These basic standards are the foundation for the National Honor Society, and it tends to further instill these potential qualities in its members.

The group meets to discuss and explain types of mathematic problems which are not covered in regular classes. Here is an opportunity for mathematically inclined students to open their minds and discuss without bounds any peculiar problems which may arise.

This worthy, non-profitting club was spearheaded by its officers who included: D. Shaw, president; E. Jason, vice-president; J. Jacobs, corresponding secretary; and D. Hamilton, secretary-treasurer.

Its members meet once a week during the regular club period. It is during these meetings that members have the opportunity to present ideas and problems related to the automotive and mechanical fields which normally cannot be discussed and solved during the regular classroom period.

The objective of the club is to exchange ideas, to promote fellowship and unity within the groups, and to stimulate clear thinking and better understanding.

Their job was to incite spirit into the fans and to urge our boys on; and this they did and did well, letting their team take the bow.

Prom . . . that "enchanted evening"

"This is a gym!"

Time out for a little chat.

Our charming Oriental aid added color to the prom.

THE PROM

The setting was in "Oriental Gardens" with the clock striking nine o'clock. The couples began gliding across the transformed gym floor in an ecstasy never to be forgotten. The seniors saddened as it was their last prom, and the juniors enlightened as it was their first.

Each charming lady looked at her escort as her "knight in shining armor," and each young man looked at his "lady fair" with newly opened eyes to her appealing beauty. The evening was yet young as was the heart of every couple there—dancing, dancing, dancing . . .

With the Oriental enchantment soon overpowering all, the evening wore on—the hours ticking, nearing the time of departure.

The clock struck its hours of parting, and each couple lined up for the grand promenade. It was all over as the couples sadly looked over their shoulders to take in that glance of fantasy.

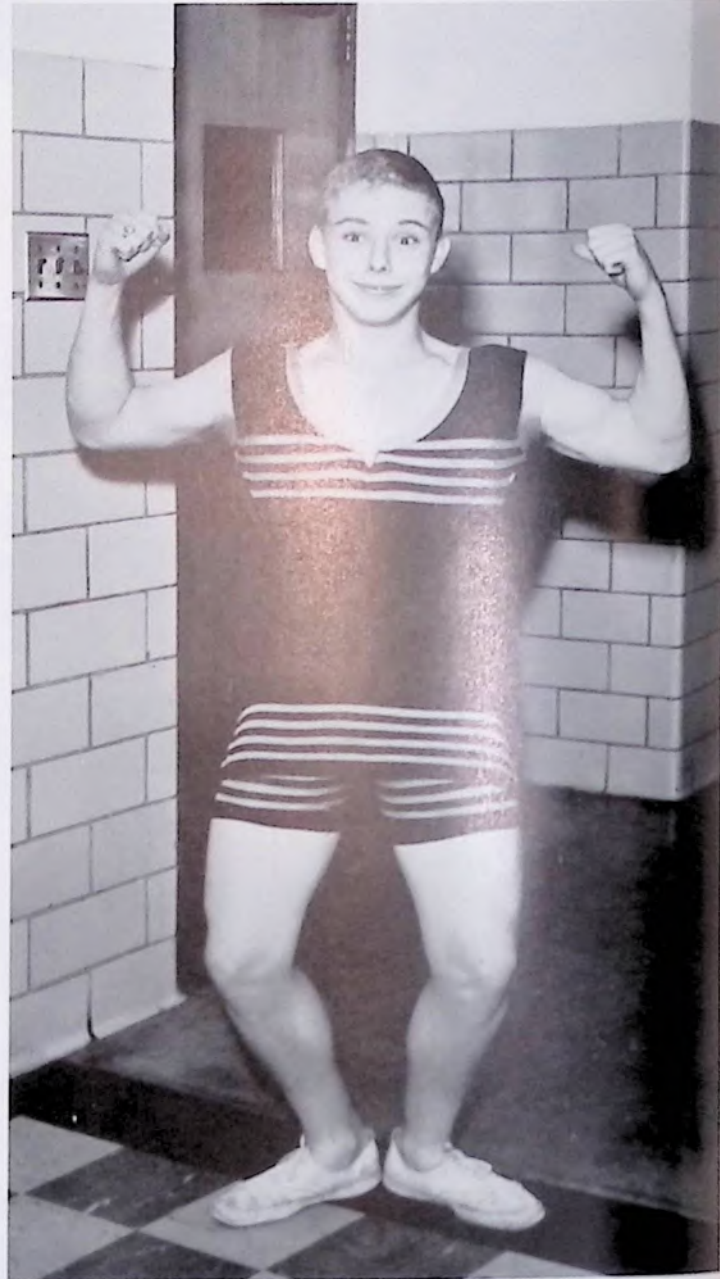

Their sadness didn't last, however as everyone gathered at the I.A.E.S. Club for the post-prom and an evening of fun and laughter. And what a way to end a perfect evening! Talk, song, and laughter rang out over the hall. Hypnotizing being the highlight of the night, the couples sportingly took part in the event.

It was the night of all nights.

Athletics ... A

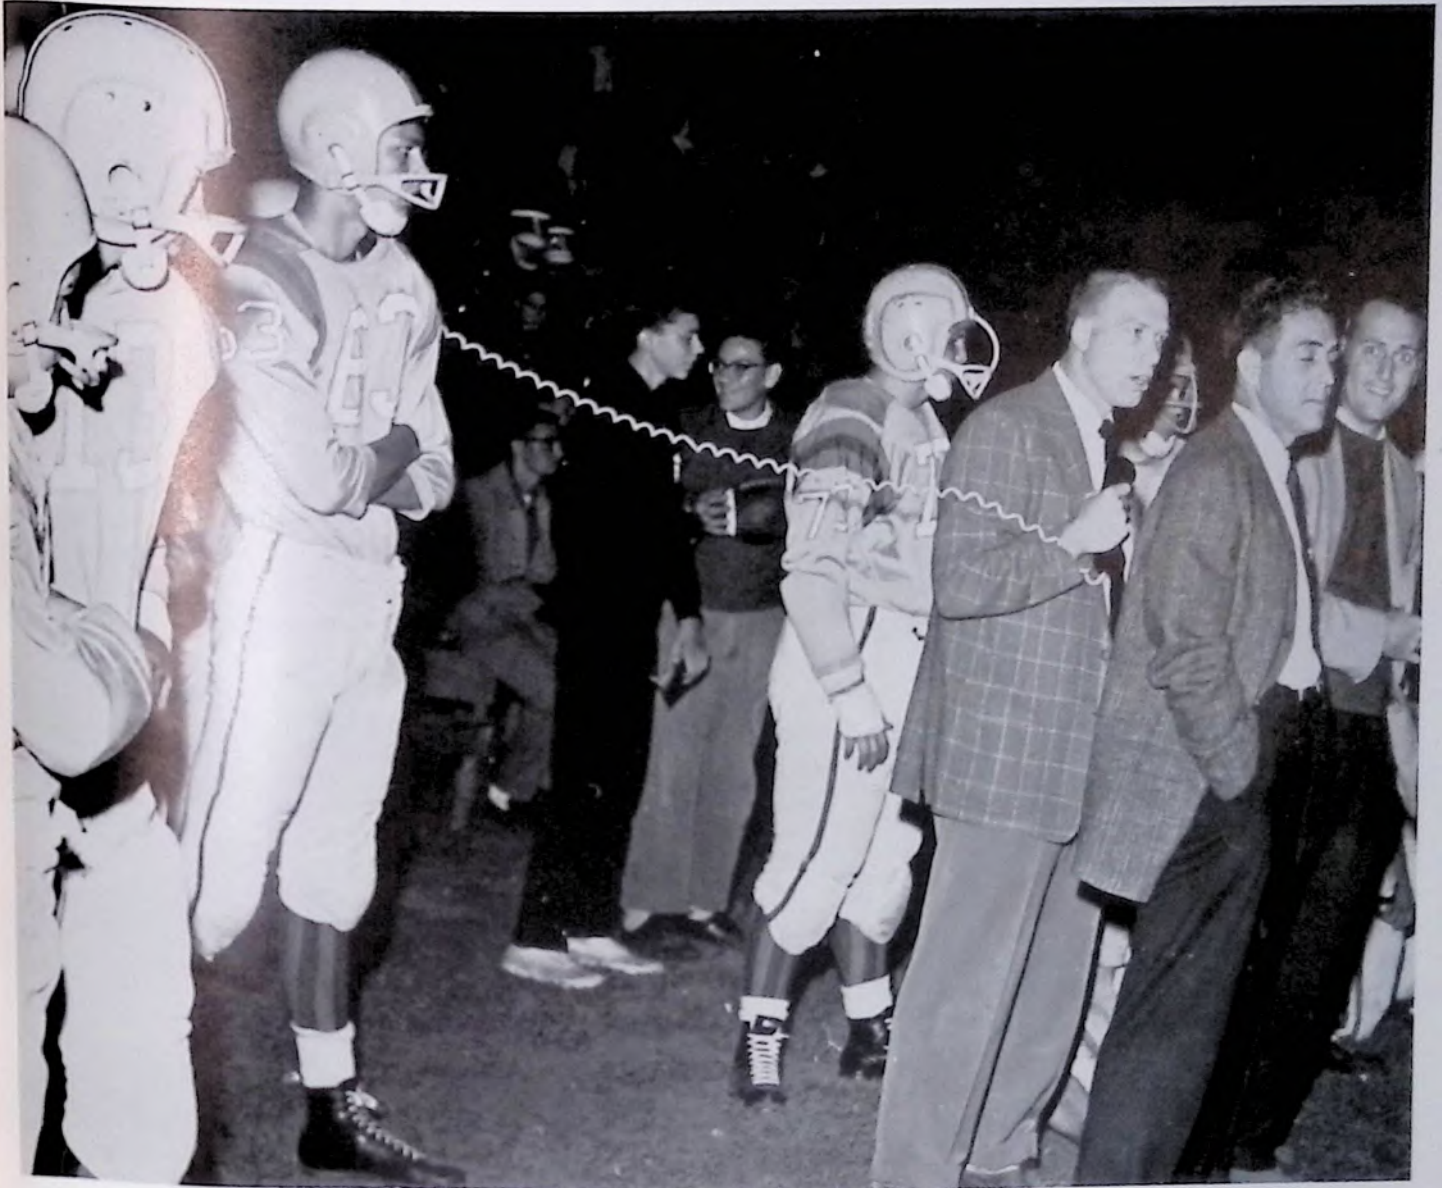

C. Pagano doing the twist.

Football, basketball, tennis, and baseball rounded out another year of fine athletic activities. The whole school year is centered around our athletic program, and it is no wonder. What could be more important to an education than competitive sports that inspire sportsmanship, an incentive to improve grades, and the ability to win or lose gracefully? What has been learned by those who participated in the athletic program will be priceless to them after high school.

The student body would like to thank everyone connected to the athletic program for a thrilling year that the seniors will not soon forget.

healthy mind and a strong body are the by-products

What's the verdict?

Mele scores against Springdale

The Lions made a good accounting for themselves and their school as they put nine games in the win column while losing but one game to Tarentum. It is even more notable to learn that this group of young men has compiled a won-loss record better than any team to precede it.

Perhaps the hardest fought game of the year was that against West Deer. Arnold continuously grinded out yardage only to be thwarted within a short distance of pay-dirt. At length, Arnold's inspired running attack pushed across the only touchdown scored in the game.

The only loss of the 1961 campaign came at the hands of Tarentum High School, 13-6. Both Arnold and Tarentum were undefeated prior to this game, but the whistle signifying the game's end held both disappointment and defeat for Arnold's fans.

R. Barbiaux and J. Donley were selected as members of the A. K. All-Star Team.

Basketball Season

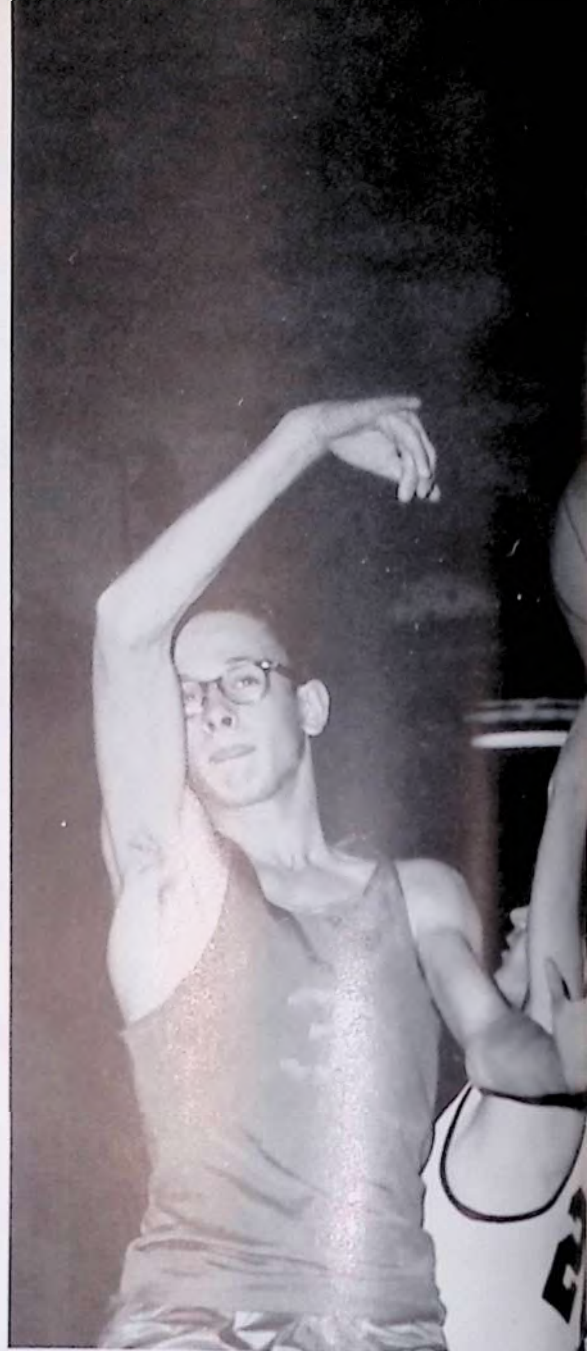

The 1961-62 Section 11-A basketball season held little cause for joy for the mighty Lions of Arnold. The little Lions were outmatched this year as game after game they opposed such high-caliber teams as Springdale, Tarentum, and Leechburg. Mr. McGuire, however, did not fail to instill the qualities of fair play and sportsmanship in the players despite the poor season. Arnold, with its spirit and keen aggressiveness, made a respectable showing in every game throughout the season. This was displayed by their fast break and ability to move the ball quickly across the floor. The game was never over until the final buzzer sounded.

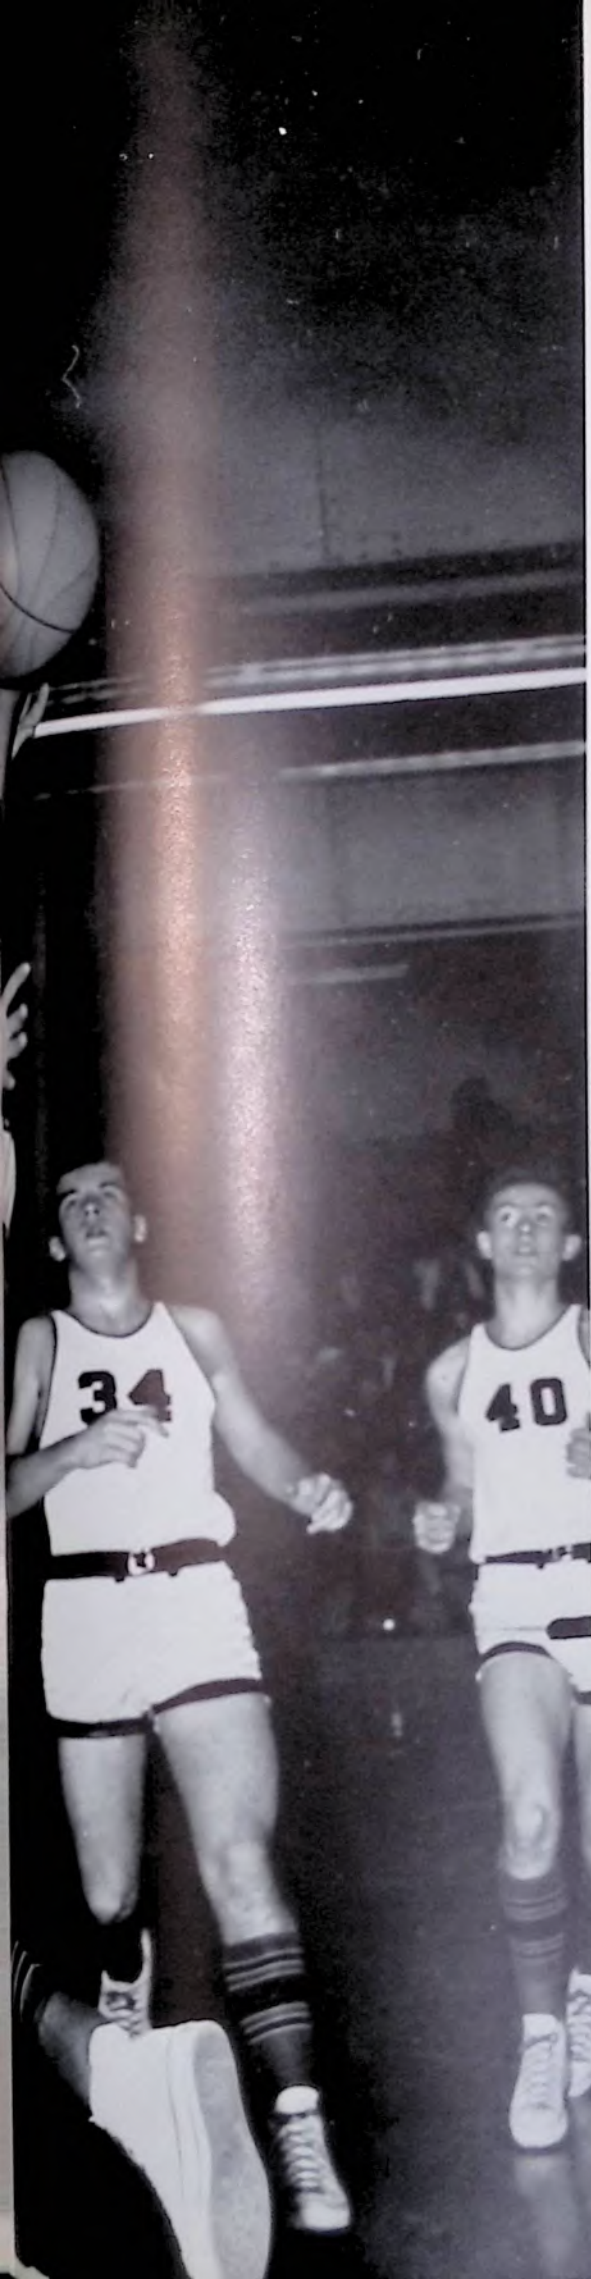

J. Donley and L. Ondako ably filled their positions as co-captains of the varsity team. Other seniors who played the final game of their high school career are A. Abel, a stalwart on defense, and H. Coyle and J. Pokusa, two standouts who constantly led the offensive attack.

Despite the unbalanced record, the fast-moving lions managed to score impressive victories over Gateway and Plum.

BASEBALL

The Arnold High School baseball team did not fare well during the 1961 season. The team's hopes were hampered by a great number of inexperienced players. Although Arnold emerged with but one victory, its rebuilding should prove to be profitable during the next season.

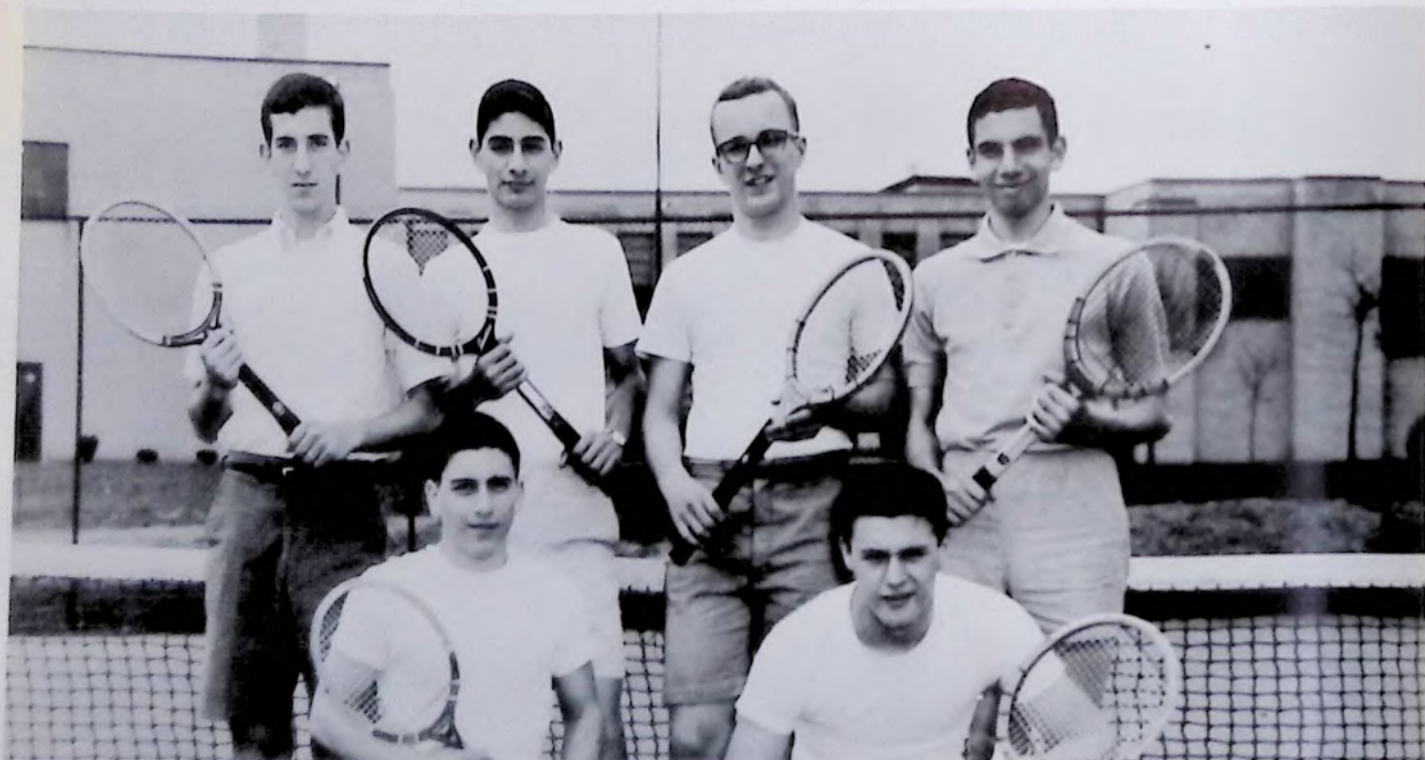

Mr. Marino has shown the players proper execution of baseball maneuvers and has emphasized the values of baseball as a keen competitive sport.
